

Nelson Marlborough Institute of Technology (ニュージーランド)

---

Hamish: Hi! My name is Hamish Duncan. I'm a second-year Bachelor of Nursing student at NMIT, Nelson Marlborough Institute of Technology. Today, I'll be taking you for a tour of the Nelson campus!

Nelson is a city in the northern part of the South Island of New Zealand. Our campus is situated in the center of the city. You can eat and shop inside campus. And if you step outside, there are also a lot of restaurants and shopping centers. It's located in a very convenient area.

Now, let me show you around the campus.

This is the enrollment center. It's where everything starts. Once you have completed the enrollment process, you will receive your student ID card.

After graduating high school, I worked various other jobs before beginning to study. Not all new college students are 18 years old. People from various backgrounds and ages come to learn here. It's really great to get to know them.

This is the Arts & Media building. The structure is built sustainably using local wood. It has won top awards for its architectural design. Here, students study subjects like computer-generated imagery.

This lecture theater is used for teaching science.

Nursing classes are taught here. This is where I am studying, too.

This is the original building of NMIT from when the institution was established in 1904. These are Bachelor of Sports and Recreation students. They have access to the most up-to-date exercise science and physiology labs in the region.

Over in Marlborough is the Blenheim campus. Students study the basics of winemaking and its finishing procedures.

This is where students study aquaculture. Throughout their bachelor's degree, they take weekly field trips, do work placements, and perform research. Aquaculture is one of the most important industries in New Zealand. Many local and international students come to NMIT to learn the cutting-edge methods and with the latest technology. Students spend time studying at our Nelson campus, as well as our partner institution, the world-renowned Cawthron Institute Aquaculture Park.

I am now at one of the dormitories. This is Nikau Apartment. It is located on campus. The classrooms and laboratories are very close, so it makes it very convenient.

NMIT has many students from overseas.

Student A: Nelson is a very international city with people from places all around the world like Europe, Asia, England, and Ireland. It is an amazing place with many different types of people and is very diverse.

Student B: I chose NMIT because New Zealand is one of the safest countries in the world, and Nelson has a very low crime rate.

Hamish: Where do you go during break or time off?

Student C: There are three national parks that are close to campus. There's also beaches and many wonderful places for hiking.

Hamish: NMIT has 5,300 students, including 300 international students from 42 countries. NMIT is one of the best tertiary institutes for anyone serious about their career. I hope you come and study with us in New Zealand!
